Portfolio Commentary

The AIM IHT Growth Portfolio recorded a total return of +5.0% in April. In comparison, the benchmark Numis Alternative Markets Index registered a total return of +3.5% over the same period. Underlying portfolio returns for individual clients will vary depending on the timing of their investment.

The top performing stock in April was James Cropper, which registered a total return of +27.4%. James Cropper, the provider of advanced materials, luxury packaging, and paper products, announced an encouraging trading update for the second half of 2023 after a period of unprecedented challenges. The company also reported an updated business strategy, focused on positioning itself to capitalise on growth opportunities within its core and emerging end markets. This strategic realignment is aimed at driving margin improvements and bringing a greater focus on its customers while remaining dynamic and agile in its markets.

The worst performing stock was RWS Holdings, which registered a total return of -14.8%. The trouble for RWS holdings, over the month of April was twofold. The firm first reported a cyber security incident affecting a legacy project management workflow application, temporarily shutting the application down and affecting trading. Secondly, RWS also released a disappointing trading update for the first half of 2023, citing a number of reasons including rising pricing pressure and lower volume among its BigTech customers, and continued depressed spending and growth in Software, Technology, and IP services.

*Q2 2016 and Calendar Year 2016 exclude the month of April since the first monies received into the strategy were only fully invested for part of that period. Performance figures show the total return of the Unicorn AIM IHT & ISA Portfolio Service Dividend Focus Portfolios where the contribution of each portfolio to the total return is weighted by portfolio size. The returns take into account all portfolio management fees but do not include initial portfolio or adviser fees. Individual portfolios are excluded during months when a portfolio is being invested, during months when withdrawals are made, where the investor has died and all portfolios where the initial investment is less than the minimums quoted in the terms & conditions of the service.
